The Election—Franklin.

The election in this county has resulted in a majority of 31 for McKee and of 60 for Toob the K. N. candidate for Sheriff. Our friends in distant parts of the State bearing in mind the fact that Franklin gave CLAY and GAYARD and PORTER all majorities last year, may well be surprised at the result now. An hour's attendance at the polls in the town precinct on Monday would have satisfied any disinterested spectator as to the mode by which alone the K. N. triumph was secured. In the first place a clerk was appointed by the sheriff whose peculiar and remarkable slowness in taking down votes harmonized beautifully with the K. N. tactics.

The crowding of Know Nothings, many of whom had voted, around the poll door, all day long, frequently with linked hands and constant cries of "don't you elbow me"—"don't you crowd me"—and an occasional "move him," settled the result of the election with much less actual bruising than is generally inflicted upon "foreigners" by bullies and shoulder-strikers in Frankfort.

Early in the morning as usual an Irishman or two was knocked down or "moved" in genuine K. N. style, and from then until the close of the polls, at dinner "quiet reigned in Warsaw." It was not found necessary to resort to mob cries or violence any more until the news from Bald Knob came in. Then the affair was managed in the most brilliant and successful manner.

The number of naturalized votes being polled was rendering the K. N. majority in the county uncomfortably doubtful. The news from Bald Knob was bad—something must be done immediately. It was deemed expedient to give an example of violence that would suffice to stop the Irish from voting. A man never before disturbed at the polls—a quiet, peaceable citizen, who attended to his own business so well as to accumulate considerable property in the town—a large tax-payer—but at the same time an Irishman, a Catholic, and a Democrat, and one considered by those of his church and race as one of their head men was singled out as a victim whose blood was to appease the appetite of Know Nothing bullies and strike terror among the Irish voters who had not yet come up to the polls. We are informed that he was standing upon the platform of the portico at the Court House quietly awaiting a chance to go up to the polls and vote, when he was assaulted in the front and rear, beset by K. N. bullies, violently pushed from the portico, and driven from the Court House yard to the pavement, receiving blows from fists and feet, and sticks all the way without the slightest resistance or aggression on his part, or the interference of any one in his behalf. He left the yard with several severe wounds on the head, without his hat, and covered with his own blood. We have been unable to learn any provocation for this attack, unless it be that he intended to do that, which by violence, he was totally prevented from doing, viz: to exercise a portion of the rights which belonged to him under the constitution and laws of his country, in casting his vote for the candidates of his choice. The man we are speaking of is JOHN HALEY, the contractor for the building of the Clay Monument—one, who, since he has taken up his residence here, has done more for the advancement of the material interests of Frankfort than all the Know Nothing bullies and shoulder strikers that could get into the Court House yard at one time. This is one of the occurrences that go to show that we had anything else but a fair and peaceable election on Monday. We might detail others, but we have given enough to account to any fair-minded man how it was that REVILL and DEHONEY were beaten over two hundred votes in the town precinct. There are, we are firmly convinced, more than forty Democratic voters in the town who were kept off from the polls, either by violence, or the fear of violence.

All the Difference in the World.
A short time ago the Attorney General in an "opinion" decided that naturalization papers to be good must have the Judge's certificate affixed. Last Monday a Dutchman named FELMAR, offered to vote with papers minus the Judge's certificate, and under this decision was rejected. It was afterwards ascertained that he intended to vote the K. N. ticket. The case was materially altered. One of the K. N. magnates of this city took the matter in hand and soon had the decision reversed, and Mr. Felmar's vote stands recorded for a party which declares that Mr. Felmar ought not to vote at all. Our contempt is equally divided between this Know Nothing Dutchman and this know nothing party.

In LIMBO.—We take great pleasure in announcing the fact that the Democracy of Mercer county have placed our oleaginous friend, E. A. GIBBONS, of the Harrodsburg Transcript, in the Mercer county Jail for a term of four years. Gib has been behaving in a way that merits such treatment for a long time. We hope the dispensation will be sanctified to his good. He is now indeed a grate fellow.

The election in this city showed most conclusively that know nothings are not opposed to foreigners, but merely opposed to their voting the Democratic ticket. The dirtiest and lowest of foreigners in Frankfort walked up to the polls under the escort of distinguished K. N.'s of this city and voted the know nothing ticket. "Americans shall rule America."

A MINER CONCERN.—The editor of the American, a K. N. sheet published at Somerset, in his prospectus, says:
"We will devote more of our paper to the development of the mineral resources of our country and those surrounding it."
We always regarded the thing as a great bore, but we had no idea that it could dig into those resources at such a rate. From its editorial we conclude that there is a great abundance of red ore in Pulaski county.

A Distinguished Trial—The Traitors Convicted.

On Monday the day of the election, the Louisville Journal published the following article which we publish as a choice specimen of know nothing sagacity and good sense:

THE ELECTION TO-DAY.—The political contest in our city to-day is one of no ordinary importance. There is much more involved in it than the election or defeat of the candidates for local officers. It is the last battle of the great national struggle of 1860. The Democratic leaders so regard it. It is the last desperate effort of the Buchanan Democracy. If they are defeated now, the strength of their party will be utterly broken, and defeat will be their unavoidable doom throughout the Union. They know that the whole nation is regarding this contest in Kentucky as the opening of the great trial. For this reason they have brought to bear in this election for State county and city officers all the available power and patronage of the Administration. The Democratic Vice President of the United States, the Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, and the Democratic Congressmen have been actively employed for weeks in making stump speeches and pipe-laying to save the Democracy from the overwhelming defeat they have reason to anticipate. These facts are strong evidence of the desperation of the Democracy, and they should encourage our friends to make more vigorous efforts than ever in behalf of the American candidate. Never before has such a sight been witnessed as that of a Vice President of the United States and an ex-Secretary of the Treasury on the stump day after day and night after night to influence an election for the clerkship of a court and of county officers.

The friends of American principles, the opponents of Lecompton Democracy and the lovers of the Union have unusual strong inducements to work together to-day, side by side, for the defeat of the Locomo Administration party. Buchanan and Crittenden, and Marshall are on trial before the people. The verdict will be recorded in the result of this election. Those who disapprove the course of Mr. Buchanan and approve the conduct of Crittenden and Marshall will vote for the American candidates. Those who are in favor of popular sovereignty will manifest it by voting for the American candidates. Those who believe that the will of a majority of the people and not the simple will of the President should govern will vote for the American candidates. Those who are tired of the ruinous extravagance of the present Administration and desire a restoration of public economy will vote for the American candidates. Those who are willing to arrest the dangerous tendency of Democracy toward the very worst of despotisms will vote for the American candidates. And every citizen of whatever party who loves the Union and is willing to maintain it and to preserve the republican institutions under which we live will vote for the American candidates and make every honorable effort in his power to secure their election by an overwhelming majority.

Taking the Journal's view of the case, Mr. Buchanan is emphatically endorsed, and Crittenden, MARSHALL and UNDERWOOD, are emphatically repudiated by the people of Kentucky. "BUCHANAN, and CRITTENDEN and MARSHALL, are on trial before the people"—says the Journal, and "the verdict will be recorded in the result of this election." Behold the verdict. In MARSHALL'S District his party lost—votes. In his own county his party lost—votes. What does the Journal think of the verdict? After placing its favorite on trial, and after such an unmistakable repudiation of their conduct by the people, ought not CRITTENDEN and MARSHALL to resign their offices into the hands of the people whom they at present misrepresent? The Journal begged for the test, will it abide by the result and submit to the expressed wishes of the people? Such a course would be both honest and wise, for if a new trial is asked, and the people get a lick at CRITTENDEN and MARSHALL themselves, the rebuke will be more emphatic and humiliating.

We suppose the Journal has given up all hopes of a victory in 1860. It must now look out for a new candidate, for CRITTENDEN has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. It must now look up a new party, for according to its own admission "the elements opposed to the Democracy" were repudiated by the people of Kentucky last Monday, and the National Democracy endorsed. What next?

GLORIOUS DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH.—Returns of the election in Oregon show that the democrats have a majority of twenty-nine on joint ballot in the Legislature of that Territory. The Legislature was to have met on the 5th instant, when an election for United States Senator would take place, in view of Oregon being admitted as a State at the next meeting of Congress. The election of General LANE was deemed certain.

SHELBY COUNTY.—The Democratic gain in this county is. If the Shelby News had had a larger circulation the gain would have been greater. The Democracy of that county should by all means try and extend the circulation of that remarkable know nothing sheet.

WORMY.—A small know nothing editor in this State, in view of the late elections, exclaims, "what now is the best thing for our party?" Your party is past all phrasing. Salt petre and new rum would not save that, but you had better take Comstock's Vermifuge.

The Rix Rax has been telling the people that there is no democratic party. We wonder if he has found out his mistake yet? or does he think that it was lightning that struck him last Monday?

We don't know of an emptier sound than the rumbling of a hungry stomach.—Lou. Journal
You probably never heard George R. McKee make a speech; the rumbling of a hungry office-seeker.

Mrs. JOHN WOOD, the actress, has commenced a suit in San Francisco against her husband for divorce, on the ground of his intemperance and ill treatment of her.

Mr. BEN BLINCO, the great omnibuster on the L. & L. Railroad, continues his kind attentions to this office, in the way of late papers.—We are glad of it.

A MOTHER'S LOVE.—We are indebted to La-martine's exquisitely fine pen for the following touching and graphic illustration of a mother's love:
"In some spring freshet, a river widely washed its shores and rent away a bough whereon a bird had built a cottage for her summer hopes.—Down the white and whirling stream drifted the green branch, with its wicker cap of unlighted song, and fluttering beside it, as it went, the mother bird. Unheeding the roaring river, on she kept, her cries of agony and fear piercing the pauses of the storm. How like the love of the old-fashioned mother who followed the child she had plucked from her heart, all over the world.—Swung away by passion, that might be, it mattered not; bearing away with him all the arguments of the shattered roof-tree, though he did, yet that mother was with him, a Ruth through all his life, and a Rachel at his death."
